WOODSTOCK HIGH SWAMPED

Goold Academy Uses Two Teams and Wins Game 47-13

Goold Academy invaded Bryant's Pond and completely outclassed Woodstock High School on Friday evening. Owing to the small floor the game had a tendency toward roughness.

Keniston, Brown and Austin performed well for the victors while Captain Willard fought gamely for the losers. In the last period Coach Kennedy of Goold used all his second string men. The line up:

SENIORS TAKE ANOTHER

The Seniors added another to their already long string by taking the measure of the class of 1929 by 59-8. From the start it was just a question of how big the score would be. Glover, Wentzel and Gregory played well for the Freshmen while York and Matheson were the two mainstays of the Senior team. The Seniors are yet to be defeated. Summary:

GOULD BASKETBALL TEAM TO BE

THAT THURSDAY, DEC. 17

Goold Academy basketball team, both boys and girls, meet the teams from Graydon, N. H., Thursday evening, Dec. 17, in the William Hingham Gymnasium. Graydon is boasting an unusually strong outfit this year with about the same personnel as last year's team, whereas Goold has but one man of last year's team, Captain Keniston. Graydon is coming to Bethel confident of reversing past defeats, but Goold is improving every day and is out to win its third straight victory.

Theodore Hattley, former Edward Little basketball star, now a Bowler at Springfield College, will handle the white. Bethel is a member of the Mass. State Board of Basket Ball Officials.

G. F. Kennedy, Boys' Physical Director, devoted the Friday and Monday Gymnasium periods to examinations.

MASONIC INSTALLATION

The installation of the officers of Bethel Lodge, No. 97, F. & A. M., was held at Masonic Hall last Thursday evening. A delicious supper was served to about sixty at 6:30. After supper a social hour was spent and at eight o'clock the installation ceremonies began. The work was pleasingly and delightfully done by D. D. G. M. Arthur M. Packard of the 26th district, assisted by G. M. Adam Young and G. C. Fred E. Thomas of Rumford. Following the installation a short program was enjoyed, consisting of selections by Herick's Orchestra, reading by Carrie Wight, vocal solo by Arthur Dudley and a piano solo by Lucella Matheson.

The officers installed are as follows: M. W.—William J. MacKay; J. W.—Ernest J. Bishop; J. W.—John M. Harrington; Secretary—Fred H. Merrill; Treasurer—A. Van Den Kerkhoven; S. D.—Clarence W. Hall; J. D.—Louis Van Den Kerkhoven; S. S.—Earl Davis; J. S.—Henry W. Boyker; Tyler—David M. Forbes.

Apparatus examinations on the parallel bars, horse, and mats were given. Competitive marching was also a part of the program. These tests will form a basis on which to grade the individuals, but general attitude and effort will be taken into consideration.

GOULD ACADEMY HONOR LIST FOR

LAST HALF OF FALL TERM

The following students have maintained a rank of ninety per cent or above in all their subjects for the six weeks ending December 4, 1926.

Seniors: Marian Bean, Elizabeth Coffin, Charles Mason, Frances Lane, Elizabeth Mason, Kenneth Stanley, Hubert Stevens.

Juniors: Edna Bean, Fredrick Clark, Wallace Saunders, Priscilla York.

Sophomores: Earl Bryant, Louise Cummings, Marjorie Kessell, Josephine Lowell, Fay Mitchell, Helen Morton, E. W. Wheeler, Hedley Wheeler.

Freshmen: Adelaide Bean, Rebecca Carter, Carolyn Cushman, Charles Freeman, Elton Glover, Homer Gregory, Amy Hanson.

The Girl Reserves held their annual Christmas Sale in the William Hingham Gymnasium Wednesday afternoon.

The Girl Reserves will have charge of chapel exercises on Thursday morning when a short Christmas program will be presented. Marian Bean of the Senior class will act as leader.

Mr. Clifford Parsons, Instructor of Manual Training, passed the week end at his home in Auburn.

The moving picture David Copperfield, recently shown in the Gymnasium, under the auspices of The Twentieth Century Club, was much enjoyed by the school and friends of the Club. This was the first of several pictures to be put on the screen during the winter.

School closes on Friday for a vacation of two weeks.

Miss Inez Farris, Goold 1922, was one of the speakers at the laying of the corner stone of the new William Hingham Athletic Building at Bates College on Monday. Miss Farris is President of the Women's Student Government Board, and in this capacity spoke for the women of the college.

A musical comedy by Raymond Chapman, Goold 1922, is to be the outstanding feature of the Y. W. Bazaar to be held at Bates College on Wednesday afternoon and evening of the present week. Miss Margaret Hanson of Bethel is a member of the cast.

Mrs. Addie K. Mason announces the engagement of her daughter, Clara Ryle, to Mr. Edmund Coo Smith.

The Citizen office has been a busy place for the past week and we hope our readers will excuse the lateness of this issue. Printing the Academy Herald, trying to work on the paper and collecting taxes was a little too much for the size of the crew.

Mr. William H. Mason and Mrs. Bertha Harding, both of Mason, were united in marriage at the Congregational parsonage by Rev. E. T. Ackersback on Wednesday, Dec. 16. The single ring service was used. Their many friends wish them much happiness.

Mr. H. I. Bean, one local for buyer, brought in to the place of the Citizen last Saturday a few fine picked from his stock for our inspection. They included coon, rabbit, Canadian trout, bobcat, fisher cat, red fox, otter, black muskrat and they were the handsomest furs we have ever seen. Mr. Bean reports a good season and excellent furs.

The Academy Herald will be ready for sale on Friday of this week. It contains 39 pages of reading material and 23 pages of advertisements. Copies can be purchased of the business manager, Kenneth Stanley.

The editor called on H. E. Day at Locke's Mills Sunday, and while there he had a chance to look at some furs Mr. Day had accumulated this fall in his trapping project. Mr. Day is tax collector for the town of Greenwood and works in the Telbott's wool mill, except for a few weeks in the fall season when he has what he calls a vacation and does a little trapping along with the tax collecting job.

To all those who in any way made my stay in the hospital cheerful by gift or card, I wish to extend my sincere thanks. MRS. JOHN POOLE.

BETHEL A. A. DEFEATS UPTON TOWN TEAM

In one of the fastest games ever played in Bethel, Bethel defeated Upton 29 to 15 on Tuesday evening of last week. Bethel played the same lifeless game as they played against Goold during the first half and Upton lead 13 to 9. The second period found a new Bethel team and for the first time this year team work was in evidence. Patterson, Young and Keenan presented a whirlwind offense which Upton could not stop. Bethel's defense speaks for itself as only one goal was registered by Upton during the second half. Summary:

METHODIST CHURCH

"The Adoration of the Kings and Shepherds," the Christmas pageant, will be presented Sunday evening at 7:30 o'clock.
No pains have been spared to make this the best possible reproduction of the original Bethlehem conditions two thousand years ago. Twelve angels set as attendants of Shepherds and Kings. The songs of the choir interpret the exact stage of the drama story. The manger scene with Joseph, Mary and the babe of Bethlehem constitutes the central figure. There are four shepherds and three Kings with their attendants. The final dress rehearsal will be on Friday evening. The stage will be made larger and all the necessary equipment will be prepared. There is a place in the pageant for the congregation to make a Christmas offering which will be a local fund to be used throughout the year in worthy benevolent ways.

The general committee is Mrs. Bertha Wheeler, chairman, Mrs. P. C. Laplante, Mrs. Leslie Davis, Mr. C. B. Oliver. Mrs. C. B. Oliver supervises the music.

There is a duet by Miss Shirley Benson and Miss Adelaide Bean during the manger scene.

Mr. Lyman Wheeler takes the part of Joseph and Miss Marian Bean is Mary. The three Kings are Messrs. Leslie Davis, Albert Gibbs, Lester Wood.

The Shepherds are: Wendell Gibbs, Hedley Wheeler, Wilson Bartlett Shepherd boy, Earl Davis.

The angels are: Mrs. Stanley Wentzel, Mrs. Leslie Davis, Mrs. Paul Davis, Miss Flora Swan, Miss Adelaide Bean, Miss Shirley Benson, Miss Beryl Brown, Mrs. A. H. Gibbs, Miss Mabel Herick, Miss Inez Vail, Miss Edna Merrill, Miss Vera Berry.

The King's attendants are: Gay Gibbs, Richard Davis, Arthur Gibbs.

Mrs. Fred Clark returned from Arlington, Mass., Saturday, where she spent three weeks with her son, Albert Clark, and family.

Mr. Philip Brown is substituting for Mr. Henry Flint in the post office. Mr. Flint is confined to the house with the mumps.

Mrs. William Young accompanied her brother, Albert Young, to New Bedford, Mass., last week where they attended the funeral of Mr. Grover's wife.

THE J. E. JONES LETTER

THE PRESIDENTIAL OPINION

The old custom of "standing behind the President" when he delivers a message has passed. Instead it is as much open to criticism as a newspaper editorial, and two men rarely agree upon the qualities of a production of that sort. Consequently, Washington proceeded to make a football out of the President's message before the ink was cold upon the type from which it was printed. The President's message was read by a clerk, and the galleries of the House were not filled. The radio was as silent as Calvin himself. A State paper was read with Coolidge returning from Chicago, like Sheridan, "miles away."

MAJOR QUESTIONS

The "wise men" of the Nation are considering taxation. That's "poetry!" But their consideration is very prosy. The President says that the House bill goes farther than he would have gone in increasing exemptions. The measure is being fought out in behalf of different classes of people who are looking for exemptions, exceptions, compensations and loopholes. Taxation is a common disease in America.

The President recommends three new assistant secretaries in the Department of Commerce, War, and Navy, to handle air service matters. Evidently he is not afraid of holding a lone opinion, since he says "our country is not behind in the art of flying."

Disarmament, agriculture, prohibition, economy, immigration, war veterans, reclamation civil service, governmental reorganization, and the Negroes, are on the legislative calendar and they will afford interesting problems when Congress is not pulling off its main row about the World Court, the coal industry, foreign debts, and the consolidation of railroads.

The President says that the Federal Trade Commission has reformed its rules and methods of doing business and should now be let alone. Some of the Senators and Representatives believe that the Commission has turned over its bag and baggage to the big interests and instead of letting the Commission alone they propose to hound it in oil.

Recommendations have been made regarding Muscle Shoals. But it will avail little as Muscle Shoals is the Argonne of American politics, and the devil dogs of Congress are going after it, so are the power interests who know that the property is too valuable to overlook.

DAWES AND LONGWORTH

Dawes and Longworth are the new paper in the Senate and the House. Dawes is being chided for showing up in a place where punctuality is a precedent, and pipes are not all fault with the nobility. But Dawes will like to do all right as soon as some of the chips are knocked off his shoulder.

Nick Longworth is a classy gentleman and he might have been Speaker a great many years ago except for the fact that he had to live down the handicap of being the Roosevelt son-in-law. He is perhaps the most deservedly popular man in Washington.

He is credited with being industrious, bristly, and fair. Mrs. Longworth has made it a rule of her home to entertain such guests as she considers worth while, or personal friends, independent of their political value. She has created a sort of curiosity as to whether the daughter of Roosevelt will get into the political game to help her husband. Mrs. Longworth has often sat in the reserved gallery of the Senate, and the hope is expressed that she may now patronize the House gallery, because there is some talk that the Speaker of that body may be President of the United States some day. The "self-made man" should be regarded in a new light, because relatives and riches have most certainly never done anything for Nick Longworth as a political factor in Washington. He has lived them down.

MINORITY GOVERNMENT

Governor General Leonard Wood has been in the Philippines for nearly five years and he couldn't carry his own ward today. Because the Filipinos don't take any stock in him and vote down his propositions some of the old-time "imperialists" in Congress want to increase Wood's authority as Governor General. From under a Republican term of Government unpopular rulers can not get along unless they have enough authority to enable them to repress their subjects.

IN HIGH GEAR

The business of the country is running in high gear and there is a determination to compel Congress to furnish the highways and make road rules that will permit full speed. In other words, nothing must interfere with the progress of the financial and business interests of the country, and they must have the

Discover Communism

Is Taught in Schools

Investigation is being made of a report that schools for training communist workers and missionaries are being conducted in this country, according to an announcement made recently by Frank Clay Cross, national director of the American Legion. Such schools have been conducted at several facilities over the country during the present summer, reports said before the Legion committee indicated.

A special subcommittee was appointed to carry on the investigation for the committee. Its members are: Frank Clay Cross, national director; John H. Jensen, Wilmington, Del.; and John Hollington, Belleville, Ill.

One school is the center of a special investigation by the committee. Fifty students are said to have been in training at this school, to be sent back to their communities and schools to spread communist propaganda. The students are reported to have come from three states. That the doctrine of communism are being taught, Hayes, the instructor, admitted. Teaching of the red flag in the United States is being spread, Hayes, according to reports. "The constitution of the United States is the product of fraud," is a part of the curriculum of the red schools.

Reports to the committee indicated that Soviet Russia has recently sent into the United States 10,000 for communist propaganda. The committee recommended its opposition to the Bolshevik regime in Russia by the government of the United States.

Four Cities Seeking National Conventions

Florida seeks the 1930 national convention of the American Legion. This was learned at the recent annual conference of Legion officials at Orlando where the decision was made to hold the 1930 meeting.

Montreal was the unanimous selection for the first conference at that city for the convention. It is understood that the Union of Commerce is ready to give $10,000 towards the cost of the convention and will put up as much more as may be necessary to provide rooms for it.

Philadelphia is the 1929 convention city. The Quebec city seeking the 1930 meeting as a feature of the centennial celebration of the signing of the Declaration of Independence.

Paris, France, is being favored for the 1927 convention. The project of meeting there is being investigated as to its feasibility. The French government will welcome the presence of the Legion.

FARM POULTRY

WINDOW GLASS IS HELP FOR POULTRY

A short time ago scientists found that animals do better when they can be in the open at least a few hours each day exposed to the direct rays of the sun. This has been demonstrated so especially true of birds and chickens. The reason is that ordinary window glass acts as a filter to the direct rays of the sun. Glass filters out the so-called ultra-violet rays—the rays that have a great deal to do with invigorating the animal.

Recently Prof. L. V. Crum, physicist of Iowa State college, has completed some tests that are of interest in this connection. Professor Crum took 24 chickens that had been kept under ordinary glass for three weeks. The birds were divided into three groups of eight each. One group was housed under glass cloth. The second group was housed under cello-glass, another product that does not exclude ultra-violet light, and a third group was housed under ordinary window glass. All were given the same feed and general care. The experiment continued for four weeks. Two of the chickens kept under ordinary glass died of rickets. The remaining six gained 180 per cent in weight during the four-week period. All of the eight chickens kept under the glass cloth remained healthy and made a gain of 250 per cent during the four-week period. The group kept under the cello-glass did not do so well as that under the glass cloth. In this group two birds also died, but it appears that one of them died from an unavoidable cause, for which the cello-glass could not be blamed. The other, however, died of rickets, but it was not a healthy bird when the experiment began.

While this test is not reported because it is conclusive, we refer to it merely to remind our readers that ordinary window glass is not as good a product as we have been in the habit of thinking, because it screens out some of the most active rays of the sunlight, says the Wisconsin Farmer. No doubt the open front houses that have come into such general use in recent years owe their beneficial effect upon the flock at least partly to the fact that the ultra-violet rays of the sun pass freely through the curtain fronts.

Many Poultry Diseases

Are Easily Preventable

Though most poultry diseases are curable, they all require more time and work than the average farm flock is worth. Therefore, it may easily be seen that prevention should be the first and most important rule in poultry sanitation and disease control. Roup, tuberculosis, chickenpox and fowl cholera are the most dangerous diseases affecting chickens.

Most farm poultry houses lack a simple and effective method of ventilation. In many houses the fowls are overcrowded, and when this is the case and there is no good method of ventilation, the air is sure to become damp, and we all know that it is in just this sort of an atmosphere that roup thrives. To avoid this condition, see to it that the front of your poultry house has an open space that equals at least one-fourth of the floor space of the building. And allow at least three square feet of floor space for each fowl.

Poultry diseases spread through the droppings of diseased birds. Most flock owners have dropping boards under the roosts, and if they haven't they should have by all means. If a part of the flock is diseased, millions of germs may be removed through the droppings instead of leaving them in the litter to contaminate the other birds. Much of the surplus moisture is also removed through the droppings.

Keep the drinking water pure and clean, and sterilize the vessels every two or three days so long as disease is present in the flock. A long-continued consumption of poison may be dissolved in all the water it will make poison for drinking water whenever the birds come in need of a drink.

Poultry Notes

Separate the chickens and the pullets.

Give plenty of food in morning.

Black duck yields about two cups of marketable feathers.

Hens must be sprayed frequently with a good disinfectant to keep down mites, lice, and disease germs.

Bathes for the laying hens should be compounded so that the hens will eat at least one-half as much mash as grain.

Self-shedding eggs may be raised by a lack of shell material, which may be the case if the hens do not have access to oyster shell.

It is profitable to keep hens comfortable. Keep the coop free from draft, still well ventilated and dry. The coolest coop is the tightly sealed, unventilated one.

right of way all the time. Interference through Government ownership, regulation, or even control, is not to be tolerated. Washington is full of conventions made up of business groups, and they are in the Capital for the purpose of telling Congress that they do not want too much of this "cheap stuff that is called popular Government." It beats all how common it has become to march right down to the Capitol of the United States and tell the representatives of the people to "mind their own business."

BURGING INSURGENTS

The LaFollette group lacks nothing in their new insurgency under young LaFollette's leadership as compared to the days when his father was the Senator from Wisconsin. This small flock of discontents will continue to wave the flag of rebellion every time they can disturb the equanimity of the regular Republican group. In the Senate cross word puzzles and other problems gave way in the opening days of the session to heated controversies over this popular question: "Is LaFollette, elected on the Republican ticket in Wisconsin, a Republican?" The Senators could do nothing better than to answer according to their individual preferences. The New England Butler-brand could find no resemblance to their own brand, either in sight, smell, or taste when it examined the Wisconsin Republican brew. The division has been a sharp one. After all, as Shakespeare said, "what's in a name?" Names and politicians do not change their odors no matter how they are called.

SAILING STRAIGHT

The Coolidge Administration is navigating on the theory that the condition of the Nation's sea lanes is clear. The currents of trade are pushing the ship of State forward during the busy days while at night the stars and the moon are making everything easy for the mariners. Therefore the orders from the White House are to sail straight ahead. Any little political squall or tempest will be very unpopular to the Captain and his crew, and unruly sailors on the Republican ship will have to walk the plank. Signs are up on the political beaches in the District of Columbia which in effect say: "Don't start anything around here if you know what's good for you."

IT SOUNDS LIKE KNOCKING

The Washington Post's paragrapher who wrote the following must have been thinking about the recent salary grab: "Give a Congressman $15,000 a year and he probably wouldn't go down to the Capitol at all." Your correspondent was in the Capitol during the opening sessions, and Republicans, Democrats, etc., were there in full force earning their salaries and taking orders from the leaders.

ANDOVER

Miss Annie Akers from Dixfield was the guest of Mrs. Avery Merrill, Wednesday and Thursday of last week.

The people were shocked Saturday morning when it was learned that Miss Dorothy Thomas, elder daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Thomas, passed away late Friday evening at her home on Pine street, after an illness of three days. Miss Thomas was nearly 21 years of age and was graduated from the Farmington Normal School in June. She was a successful teacher in the school at East Andover and taught until Wednesday when she was taken ill. She was a fine musician and was greatly beloved by her childhood friends. Surviving are her father and mother, a young sister, Constance, and her grandparents, Mrs. Adelaide Burgess and Mr. and Mrs. Frank P. Thomas. We extend our sympathy to the bereaved family. The funeral, which was private took place at the home Monday afternoon. Rev. C. G. Miller from South Paris conducted the services. The floral tributes were beautiful. Interment was in Woodlawn Cemetery.

The GOLDEN RULE in PRACTICE

A series of articles by prominent leaders on the Golden Rule as a guide in International Relations.

PLAIN LIVING AND HIGH THINKING

By CHARLES V. VICKREY
General Secretary of the Near East Relief

THE GOLDEN RULE is a universal creed. Everybody accepts it. Most people try to practice it.

Golden Rule Sunday is examination day—a day of plain living and high thinking; of self-measurement by the Golden Rule to see how big we really are.

Golden Rule Sunday comes midway between the feasts of Thanksgiving and Christmas.

On Thanksgiving Day we satisfy ourselves with good things. We survey our broad acres, bulging granaries, and busy factories. We reappraise our unprecedented and soaring wealth of more than three hundred billion dollars, far transcending anything previously or elsewhere known in all the world. Not least are we thankful for government under which life and property are safely no people ever had as great reason for gratitude as have we in America on Thanksgiving Day, 1925.

At Christmas we again indulge in feasting and mirth, and share some of our luxuries with relatives and friends, some of whom are sore perplexed to know where to store the gifts that we pour into their well-provided homes.

But on Golden Rule Sunday we express our gratitude and practice "pure religion undefiled before God" in a more vital way by considering "the fatherless and widows in their affliction" who, as worthy as we, by the vicissitudes of war, are bereft of everything. They have no lands, no granaries, no bank accounts, no savings, no employment, no homes, no food, except as the Golden Rule gives a vital reality in their lives.

It is proposed that on Golden Rule

Sunday, all persons who are disposed to make a practical application of the Golden Rule, provide for their Sunday dinner approximately the same menu that is provided, when funds permit, by Near East Relief for the tens of thousands of orphaned children in its care, most of whom are under twelve years of age.

Having partaken of the orphanage meal and entered into fellowship with the children overseas, we are asked to make such provision for them for the 365 days of the year as we should like to have made for ourselves, or for our children, if conditions were reversed.

Golden Rule Sunday will be observed throughout the United States in December, on behalf of the Near East Relief. This series of articles, by prominent public men who are supporters and spokesmen for this great philanthropy, is designed to call public attention to the background and purpose of the work and its need for general support.

nificent American work calculated as it is, not to Americanize Armenians and Greek orphans, but to train them for good citizenship just where they are.

They are taught by teachers of their own race, while Americans support and manage the work. We can not imagine how grateful are these children for the shelter we have provided for them, every monthful they eat, every garment years to come will come from us. There is no other source of supply for them.

The popularity of June as a month for marriage is inherited from the Greeks and Romans. The goddess Juno, to whom the month was dedicated, was the patroness of marriage.

STOP THAT BACKACHE!

Many Bethel Folks Have Found the Way.

Is a dull, nerve-racking backache wearing you out? Do you feel older and slower than you should? Are you tired, weak and nervous; and it is impossible to be happy, or enjoy the good times around you? Then there's something wrong and likely it's your kidneys. Why not get at the cause? The Doan's Pills—a stimulant diuretic to the kidneys. Your neighbors recommend Doan's. Read what this Bethel resident says:

O. B. Wheeler, R. F. D. 2, says: "I had a dull, heavy ache across my back that kept on steadily. I was bothered with my kidneys, too, and I had to get up a couple of times every night to use the toilet, for my kidneys were weak and disordered. I used Doan's Pills which I bought at Boston's Drug Store, and was soon rid of kidney trouble."

Price 25c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Pills—the name that Mr. Wheeler had. Foster-McBride Co., Mfrs., Buffalo, N. Y.

CANTON

A pleasing occasion was the dedication of the vestry of the Universalist Church at Canton, Saturday evening when the Universalists and their friends in a goodly number were present. A fine supper was served at six o'clock. Following this all repaired to the church where a pleasing address was given by Rev. Stanley Manning of Augusta, State Chap. of Universalist Churches. The vestry which has been under construction for several weeks past was completed a few days ago and an informal dedication was planned to celebrate the happy event, which was most gratifying to all concerned. SYNOPSIS

CHAPTER I.—Kate Cathrow, "Cattle Kate," owner of the Sky Line ranch, on her way to McKane's store at Corbett, seemingly infuriated by the sight of a girl plowing in a valley below, places a rifle bullet near the horse's feet. The girl takes no notice.

CHAPTER II.—Nance Allison, the girl on whom Kate Cathrow had vented her spite, in with her widowed mother and crippled brother, had farming land taken up by her father, killed a short time before in a mysterious accident. She is the victim of deliberate attempts to maim or kill him. Kate Cathrow wants the farm for pasture land, and is trying to frighten the Allisons into leaving.

CHAPTER III.—Big Basford, Sky Line rider, desperately in love with Kate, picks a quarrel with a fellow rider, Rod Stone. Kate, to part them, lashes Basford across the face with a quirt.

CHAPTER IV.—Nance discovers in Kate's cave a collar dog, evidently guarding a child. She tries in vain to overcome the dog's hostility and goes home mystified.

CHAPTER V.—Next day Nance returns to the cave with food and makes friends with the dog and the small boy, Sonny. He tells her "Brand" is the care of him and "Duke," the collie, Nance promises him to return next day with more "goodies."

CHAPTER VI.—Selwood is certain Kate Cathrow is the head of a "cattle rustling" gang, with Lawrence Arnold, her partner, who rarely visits the ranch. Minnie Kins, harbored at the Sky Line ranch, is in love with Rod Stone.

CHAPTER VII.—Ranchers complain of the stealing of their cattle and blame Sheriff Selwood for his seeming inactivity.

CHAPTER VIII.—Nance, visiting Sonny and Duke in the cave, meets "Brand," who is favorably impressed. He tells her his name is Kate, which is also Sonny's, and obtains her promise to keep their presence a secret.

CHAPTER IX.—Nance becomes keenly interested in Brand's story. She is relying on a field of corn to pay off debts she owes McKane.

CHAPTER X.—Fair sees Rod Stone, one of the Sky Line ranch riders, in Blue Stone canyon, and tells Nance he and Sonny must move at once. The girl begs him to leave the boy with her, and he consents.

CHAPTER XI.—A few nights later cattle are turned into Nance's cornfield and the crop destroyed. The Allisons realize the destruction is the work of Kate Cathrow.

CHAPTER XII.—Nance tells McKane of the disaster and her consequent inability to pay her debt to him. She pleads Kate's hunger and humiliate her. Kate attempts to shoot her, but Selwood intervenes.

CHAPTER XIII.—Fair visits the Allisons home and is warmly welcomed. He tells Nance he is on Kate Cathrow's trail for various misdeeds. While they are talking, a windmill is blown down. Nance is wounded in the arm by a rifle shot, fired with deadly intent.

CHAPTER XIV.—A prospector, "John Smith," really Brand Fair, shows Sheriff Selwood the entrance to a passageway in the hills through which Kate Cathrow and her riders drive the stolen cattle.

CHAPTER XV.—The Sky Line riders raid Basford's ranch, driving off a young head of cattle. Sheriff Selwood, on the watch since his talk with Fair, joins the riders without being detected, getting all needed evidence to convict Kate Cathrow and her partner, Lawrence Arnold, of crimes which will send them to prison for life. He is not to open it unless something happens to Fair.

CHAPTER XVI.—The Sky Line riders learn that Selwood, who they know was the spy who had shot at them, though unconsciously, and his recovery is looked for. Fair tells Nance of his love, and finds it returned. He gives her a package, telling her it explains the reason for Sonny's prison life. Kate Cathrow and her partner, Lawrence Arnold, of crimes which will send them to prison for life. He is not to open it unless something happens to Fair.

CHAPTER XVII.—Sonny finds in the package left by Fair a letter in which Nance reveals the conclusion that the woman is Sonny's mother and that he is Kate's brother. Fair visits the Sky Line ranch.

"You're a fool!" said Caldwell dispassionately, "and up and send the business entrusted to you. Miss Allison, he said to Nance, "you're just the person we wanted to see. We were sent this morning to fetch you to Sky Line, so you may as well go along sensibly, for we'll take you anyway."

Nance rose to her feet. "Then you'll have to take me," she said calmly, "for I'll not ride a step with anyone from Sky Line."

She swung into her saddle and struck her heels to Blackbird's sides in a familiar move of escape—little Redbird, sleek and faithful.

Fair laughed again and dashed forward with a leap of his gray silver-up that put him close to a dark. "All right, my girl," he said and caught her.

He tucked the little horse up the slope, Caldwell fell in close behind and in a matter of five minutes Nance Allison was a prisoner loaded for Sky Line ranch, with her own horse.

The pink flush was gone entirely from her face, leaving it pale as wax. Her lips were faintly ashen.

"Help me, Lord!" she whispered in anguish. "Oh, my God, he's not far from me!"

There was no fear in her, only a deep and surging anger that seemed to burn her lungs before for sufficient air. Her usually smiling lips were set straight in a thin line.

So, in silence, save for Provine's occasional jesting observations, they climbed the breast of the great ridge and presently struck into the well-worn trail which led direct to Sky Line.

At the broad steps to the right Nance was ordered to dismount. Provine took Buckskin and Caldwell motioned her to ascend the steps. With her head up and her mouth tight shut Nance Allison strode forward into the stronghold of her enemies.

The door was open, and she saw first only a pale darkness within as she stepped on the threshold.

Then, pushed forward by the foreman with a none too gentle hand, her eyes slowly became accustomed to the shadowy interior and, in spite of herself, they widened with amazement at the splendor she beheld.

A man was sitting on a broad couch, a cigarette in his fingers. He was a stranger to Nance, a stranger to the country, but she catalogued him swiftly as the man from New York of whom all Nameless had heard. He was slim and rather close together across the arch of the high-bridged nose, were the sharpest she had ever seen in a human.

A fox she had once seen caught in a trap had had just such eyes.

They were cold and appraising, without a spark of kindness.

In one of the gorgeous chairs Kate Cathrow, dressed like a princess, sat bolt upright.

At sight of Nance in her faded garments, straight and defiant in her controlled anger, her handsome face flushed beneath its artistry.

"Ah!" she said, like a vixen, "get—out—of—that—door. Step over to the right a bit, you obscure the light."

The big girl did not move.

She stood with her hat pulled down above her narrowed eyes, one hand on her hip.

"If you've got anything to say to me," she said coldly, "say it."

Kate Cathrow leaped to her feet, but the man put out a hand and touched her.

As if a spring had been released she sank down, obeying that calm touch like an automaton.

"Miss—ah—Allison," said Arnold, "there is no need for dramatics. Neither will they avail you. We wanted to see you—no talk business with you. So sit down for a moment."

"So I see," said Nance, "or rather you kidnapped me."

"Not so decided, please. We don't like such words. They are—ah—crude, I might say."

"Not half so crude as you will find the methods of Nameless when this gets out, I guess," said Nance. "Heaven knows I don't amount to much, but I am likely to be a torch for a fire that's smoldering."

"We have extinguishers," smiled Arnold. "Sky Line is a pretty fair department, if I do say it. The thing for you to do just now is—think. I'll give you ten minutes."

"I don't need them," said Nance. "I've thought for several years—about my father's death—my brother's crippled body—my missing cattle—my burned stacks—and many other things. I'm thinking now about Sheriff Selwood—and Basford's latest loss."

The man's face hardened, yet a reluctant admiration drew a slight smile across it.

"You take liberties, Miss Allison. Are you not speaking in jest—a little—ah—affront to—ah—so broadly?" Nance laughed bitterly, shifting her feet in their worn shoes.

"Affront! No—not of you—nor of your hired rascals nor Cattle Kate, there, with her goat and her ten pigs. I'm not afraid of anything but the wrath of God."

At that Arnold laughed outright. "You have something yet to learn. I see. Very well, since you do not care to think I will outline briefly your situation. You know, of course, that you are at present in the power of Sky Line ranch. Remembering back ward you will come to the conclusion that there is a primal cause for this. Reasoning forward you will know that there is something which you can do for Sky Line, which it wants of you."

"Of course," said Nance, "the whole country knows that—my father on the river."

Arnold frowned. "He did not like that answer. And how, may I ask, does the country know this?"

"It knows what has happened to me for several years now—and it judges the faces of your riders and their boss."

"If you please, we'll leave Miss Cathrow out of this," said Arnold crisply.

"Yes!" asked Nance. "She's been the backbone of my troubles—now you, no doubt—and it isn't likely I'll leave her out. If you have anything to say to me I'll give you to say it."

"All Nameless may come hunting for you, Miss Allison," returned the man, and get it over before Nameless could hunt him.

The man did not speak again, nor did Nance.

There came a shuffle and rattle of mud and the two Sky Line riders stood in the doorway of the room beyond, having come through the kitchen.

"Miss Allison," said Arnold, "I own the men of Sky Line, how or why is unimportant. What I tell them to do, they do. Am I not right, men?"

Provine nodded easily. "Big Basford spoke suitably."

"All right," he said, "my girl, consider. There is on Sky Line a secret place—"

"I've always thought so," said Nance decidedly.

"Be quiet. A place which the whole of Nameless is not likely to find, so mysteriously is its entrance hidden. One could live there for a lifetime undisturbed—or be taken out as it on wings—"

"Like Basford's disappearing sister?"

Arnold was exasperated, but held his temper.

"Exactly," he said, "if you will. Now consider again. You are a pretty fine specimen of a woman—quite likely to appeal to men—especially to men like Basford. (Nance's companion, ship—like Basford there.)"

Nance flung a glance at Basford. His smiling face set in its thicket of beard with the red-rimmed eyes above, was enough to chill the heart of any woman. The great eyes like black holes stared over her. Her own intrepid spirit felt a shock of horror, but that, deep anger in her left little foot for foot.

She seemed to hear again Basford's exultant words: "You'll never leave the line, Nance, never in this world!"

With a dogged courage heaving through the anger she looked back at Arnold.

"Well?" she said.

"Big Basford hasn't had a woman of his own for many moons, I know. Now—will you sign this deed—or will you go with Basford to Rainbow's pot—his blushing bride?"

Nance's breast was heaving. Great breaths diluted her lungs and whistled out again. Her hands were shut tight, the fingers on her hat brim crimping the weathered felt.

She thought of her mammy—of Rod—of their long labor and the hardships they had borne. She thought of the rable on Nameless—of its white scrubbed faces—its honest confidence—and all it meant to them and to her. It was her puppy's dream of empire it had been here. She thought of Basford and of Sonny. Of Basford and Rod who would once start the fire in burning in all the lonely reaches at news of her disappearance—and—

"I'm as good as dead now," she said, "I take care of myself. I wouldn't sign that paper to save you and all your rascal nest from eternal damnation! And that's my last word."

Arnold snatched his fingers.

"Enough," he said, "we'll see what a night in Rainbow's pot will do for you. Basford—my compliments. I give you the beautiful lady. Properly disciplined she'll make you a fine wife."

But Big Basford shook his unkempt head.

"She's a yellow woman," he said contemptuously, "I don't want her and his hungry eyes went happily toward the dark splendor of Kate Cathrow in her velvet chair."

Provine surged forward, a sudden excitement in his murky eyes.

"I do," he cried, "try me!"

Arnold laughed.

A TREMENDOUS PRICE REDUCTION

On January seventh, nineteen twenty-six, Dodge Brothers Incorporated will announce a tremendous reduction in the prices of their complete line of motor cars.

These reductions will apply on all cars bought after midnight December fifteenth, nineteen twenty-five.

When the new prices are made known on January seventh the full amount of the reductions will be immediately refunded to all purchasers since December fifteenth.

These revolutionary reductions are made possible by a recently completed ten million dollar expansion program—new buildings and equipment that will nearly double the capacity of Dodge Brothers factories in nineteen twenty-six.

There is no change in the policy upon which Dodge Brothers established their leadership eleven years ago—the policy of constant improvement without yearly models.
